

BERNINI

Il cavalier Gian Lorenzo Bernini, scultore, architetto e pittore seicentesco, simbolo stesso delle grazie barocche italiane, colui che "nel ritrarre alcuno non voleva ch'egli stesse fermo, ma ch'è si movesse e ch'ei parlasse.", segna con il proprio nome questa nuova collezione per l'ufficio.

Nome che si legittima per alcune comunanze finali: la leggerezza, l'eleganza e per l'essere al contempo collezione dalle linee asciutte e geometriche e collezione dalle superfici piene e smussate. E ancora per essere un ragionamento sugli incastri e sugli innesti tra i piani attraverso una sorta di croce plurilobata di grande somiglianza con "piloni", pilastri e i tipici rilievi architettonici rientranti ed uscenti dell'architettura del Bernini. Quel muovere gli incastri e le forme in successioni convesse e concave, concitate e rawvicinate ha ispirato in qualche modo qui una gamba/cerniera/connesione che, pur nella sua semplificazione mantiene il rimando alle forme barocche.

La volontà di mantenere quel nome, Bernini è anche però un omaggio a Roma e con lei all'Italia. Bernini, nacque a Napoli, operò in più parti d'Italia, fu richiesto con insistenza a Parigi dal re di Francia per il progetto del Louvre, ma di fatto fu anzitutto artista romano dove si legò alla "grand opera" del portico di San Pietro.

Il ripercorrere le forme berniane e qualche "piacevolezza barocca" in rapporto con una pulizia delle linee e con una geometria razionale è il carattere di questa collezione. Ne risulta una straordinaria "leggerezza", immediatezza, un continuo dialogo tra "grazia" e rigore, ed un'abbastanza unica capacità di giocare liberamente tra vuoti e pieni: dal tutto vuoto, al tutto pieno. I distanziali tra gambe e piano come micro capitelli o rochetti di metallo, rendono ancor più leggera la collezione, facendo sostanzialmente volare i piani di scrivanie e di tavoli riunione, nel vuoto.

La ricchezza materica dell'ebano Macassar in contrappunto con la leggerezza dei telai in alluminio spazzolato, ben si coniugano con gli inserti in cuoio preziosamente impunturati.

Cette nouvelles collections de bureau sont inspirées et baptisées en hommage à Gian Lorenzo Bernini, célèbre sculpteur, architecte et peintre du XVII^e siècle, un symbole de l'art baroque italien, l'homme qui "quand dépeignant ne souhaite pas que son client reste immobile, mais qu'il se déplace et parle...".

Le nom est légitimé par des points communs: légèreté et élégance et en même temps une collection aux lignes strictes et géométriques avec des surfaces pleines et lisses.

De plus c'est une réflexion sur les mixages de différentes surfaces à l'aide d'une croix multilobée, similaires aux "Piloni", piliers et reliefs architecturaux dans la conception du Bernini.

Le mouvement continu causé par une succession d'espaces convexes et concaves a en quelque sorte inspiré la conception d'un pied / charnière / joint qui, bien que simplifié par la suite, est devenu l'élément clé de cette collection.

Bernini est né à Naples, mais il a travaillé dans de nombreuses régions de l'Italie ; il a été instamment invité par Louis XIV à se rendre à Paris pour la construction du Louvre, mais il était avant tout un artiste de Rome qui, grâce à la colonnade de St.Pierre, son nom est lié.

La trace des formes de Bernini et certains «agréable baroque» dans une relation avec le minimalisme des lignes et une géométrie rationnelle donne le caractère de cette collection.

Le résultat est une extraordinaire «légèreté», l'immediateté, un dialogue continu entre "grâce" et rigueur, et une capacité assez unique à jouer librement entre vide et plein, de complètement vide à complètement pleine. Les entretoises entre les pieds et les plateaux comme les micro-chapiteaux ou les bobines de métal, rendent la collection plus légère, essentiellement à faire voler les tops des bureaux et des tables de conférence dans le vide.

La noblesse de l'ebène de Macassar en contradiction avec la légèreté des cadres en aluminium brossé, se jumelent avec des inserts en cuir finement cousues.

This new line of office furniture is inspired and named after Gian Lorenzo Bernini, famous sculptor, architect and painter of the XVII^e century, a symbol of Italian baroque art, the man who "when portraying did not wish his client to stand still, but that he should move and talk...".

His art has inspired the levity, elegance and the idea behind the design of this series presenting simple geometric lines and rounded surfaces, as well as the design of a series of joints and grafts between the various surfaces by means of a multi-lobed cross similar to the "Piloni", pillars and the typical architectural reliefs in Bernini's designs.

The continuous movement in Bernini's works originated by a succession of convex and concave spaces has somehow inspired the design of a leg/hinge/joint which although subsequently simplified, has become the key element of this collection and is reminiscent of baroque forms.

Our wish to name it after Bernini wants to be also a tribute to Rome and to Italy.

Bernini was born in Naples, but also worked elsewhere in Italy. He was insistently invited by the King of France, Louis XIV to travel to Paris for the building of the Louvre, but he was above all an artist of Rome linking his name to St.Peter's colonnade.

Tracing Bernini's shapes and some "baroque pleasantness" in the relation between clean lines and a rational geometry is the characteristic of this collection. The result is an extraordinary "lightness", immediacy, a continuous dialogue between "grace" and rigor, and a fairly unique ability to play freely between open and closed spaces, from completely open to completely closed.

The spacers between legs and desktop as micro capitals or metal spools give the collection a much lighter appearance, essentially making desktops and conference tables seem to fly in the void.

The richness of ebony Macassar in contrast with the lightness of the brushed aluminium frames harmonises well with the preciously stitched leather inserts.

Il candore di forme e linee ben si evidenzia quando le gambe\etelaio rimangono vuote senza pannelli intermedi. La leggerezza degli appoggi contrasta elegantemente con l'importanza volumetrica del piano e della sua cornice barocca.

Le minimalisme des formes et des lignes est évident lorsque les pieds et le cadre restent vides sans panneaux intermédiaires. La légèreté des appuis contraste élégamment avec l'importance volumétrique du top et son cadre baroque.

The clean shapes and lines are evident when legs and frame are left empty without intermediate panels. The lightness of the supports elegantly contrasts with the volumetric importance of the top and its baroque frame.

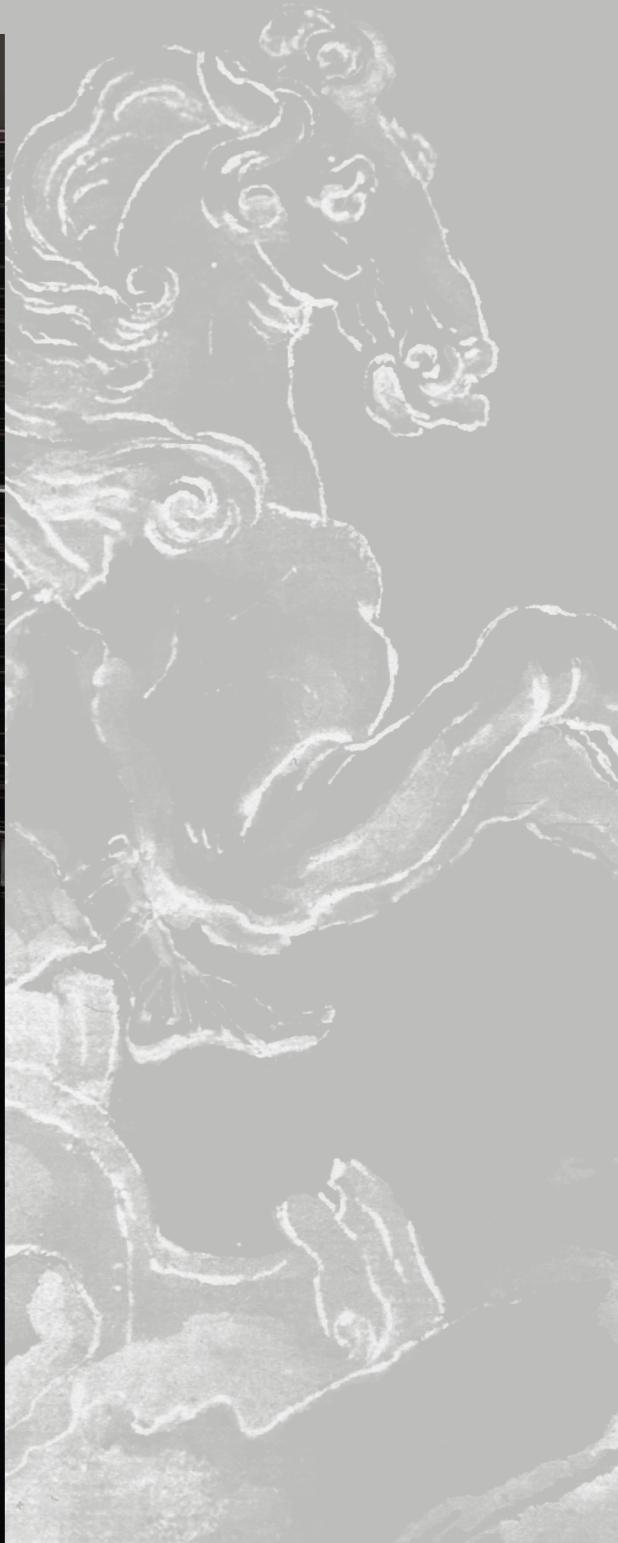

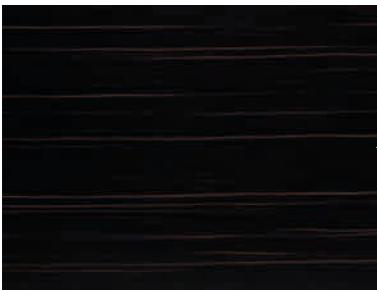

Il contrasto fra la lucentezza del metallo e dell'ebano Macassar fa di Bernini un prodotto di grandissima eleganza e ricchezza pur nella sobrietà delle linee e nella razionalità compositiva.

Le contrast entre l'éclat du métal et de l'ebène de Macassar fait de Bernini un produit d'une grande élégance et richesse, malgré la simplicité des lignes.

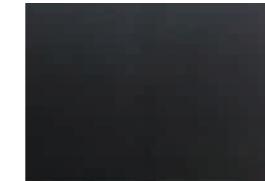

The contrast between the brightness of the metal and the ebony Macassar of the Bernini series engender a product of great elegance and richness, despite the cleanliness of the lines and the rational composition.
